

KID CITY Year 2 Evaluation:

Youth program data tables

KID CITY is a partnership between the City of Maplewood and Z Puppets Rosenschnoz that empowers communities through the power of playfulness and public art across age, class and culture, putting youth at the forefront of creative community revitalization. For the KID CITY evaluation, Wilder Research developed a survey template to evaluate five KID CITY youth programs. This survey template asked students about three levels of impact: arts engagement (did they have fun?), arts learning (did they develop an art skill?), and community revitalization (did they learn how art and community are connected?). In total, there were five different types of youth programs. For each program type, the survey was tailored to ask about the three levels of impact in relation to that specific youth program.

Count of youth who participated in the evaluation (N=140)	Count	Percent
My City Park – Toy Theater (grade 4)	81	59%
